Pastor Says

God Only A Puppet

"Lost King" is a term coined by historians to denote a person who accepted a throne but declined no power.

Reader's Digest article "book condemnation" again in the Mad Monk of which related Tsar Ill as being manipulated by mysterious monk called Nicholas was only a puppet. Will Old Testament tales of these kind of rulers.

Israel and Judah were often puppet states between Egypt and Babylon or Syria. These cases of history are tragic, but even more tragic is the role of Christ in many a Christian realm.

Both God and you cannot occupy the throne of your life at the same time. You cannot serve God and Mammon" at the same time (Matt. 5:24) When you are on the throne, the Christ is not your king.

Can you imagine a Common, wealth with a king who was to receive no tribute from his subjects? Can you feature Elizabeth II being England's Monarch only on Sunday? Can you conceive of any subjects saying to their ruler, "we expect you to rule in such a manner so that we can all prosper, and then spend all our money somewhere else?

What about the citizens of our country who want all the rights and privileges who rebel against the cost involved?

Yet many Christians are doing this very thing. They demand the best for their children and families; they want the benefits of a Christian Church, but at the same time the privilege of "free-wheeling". Do not expect Christ to just be a puppet; one whom you can manipulate for your own advantage? Well, this isn't possible. Either Christ is Lord of All or, he will not be Lord at all.

If you accept the free salvation given in Christ, yet withhold your financial support of his kingdom; if you worship in the Lord's House, on the Lord's Day but ignore his interests the balance of the week; if you expect material and spiritual blessings to enrich your life; yet invest all your interest and dividends from life on the Devil's market, then God is only a puppet king in your life.

We are living in times which call for the best loyalty to the Lord. George Washington said a long time ago, "It is impossible to govern the world without God". So to withhold any area of your life from God is treacherous.

The first thing God wants from every person is the person himself. Until He has you, he wants nothing from you. And remember you are the looser, not God. You can't hide behind any excuse either. Not to let God take over in your life brings a worse penalty than trying even if you are not as successful as you would like to be.

Make the Lord, the Master of all of your life. Be in the church of your choice Sunday crowning him the Lord of your life.

O. D. Moore
Liberty Baptist Church

Editor's Mailbox

Please read this. It is to let you know the kind of a neighborhood we live in:

Mrs. Kinney called me up at about 10:30 telling me that Mr. Kinney had a heart attack, so I start out for help. The first home I looked like no one at home so on to the next house which was the home of Mr. Ralph D. Reynolds. And when I was able to get him out of bed, he asked no questions when I told him that Kinney was in trouble he did stop to put on his socks. Then he was up and gone and had Mr. Kinney in his car in at least 15 minutes and on his way to the hospital. One lady that I got out of bed called the Rescue Squad so this brings to my mind that we do not do enough for the squad. I would like to have the squad put out containers where we could drop in our change. I think it is up to us all to help them and I will help them in any way that they ask.

Thank You,
James B. Kearns

He Will Come

Lesson for March 31, 1963

The words "Second Coming" always mean one particular Coming. Millions of persons every day in the world come a second time to some place or other; but that is not what Second Coming means. When spelled with capitals, the expression refers to Christ in the future. He will come; that is important. He comes: every day that is true. He will come: this is important, too. Christians have engaged in endless debates, more's the pity, about the Second Coming ... mostly questions about it that no one can answer before hand. But whatever their differences, all branches and varieties of the Christian faith agree that Christ will reign; that at long last He will be in fact and not only in hope, the Ruler of this world.

Literal or figurative?

What is said about the Second Coming is not entirely simple and clear. It is were, there would not be so many arguments about it. One question that no one can answer to every one's satisfaction is: Are the predictions and the descriptions of it to be taken literally or figuratively? Taken literally, they raise difficulties. For example, in one of the verses from Mark in this week's lesson, it is said that Jesus will come "in the clouds." Does this mean literal clouds such as you can fly through, and often fly over? Men come in the clouds to every airport. What is special about that? And if you say that these are not ordinary water-drop clouds, but something never seen before, you have decided the meaning must be figurative. But still the difficulty is not gotten rid of: for a figure of speech always means something. We could go through all the expressions connected with the Second Coming, and note the difficulties of understanding all of them; but let us rather fix our attention on a few points that we can at least partly understand.

The power and the glory

We may not be able to figure out the "clouds" but we know something of what Power and Glory mean. The main truth is here that Christ's Second Coming will not be obscure, humble, unwelcomed by most people, as was the First Coming. Jesus will reign; He reigns even now in the hearts of multitudes, but His reign is not always visible. His Second Coming will reveal Himself to the world with a splendor and force that no man can doubt. Sometimes a wealthy person will fall in love with another person who may be quite poor by comparison. The rich lover may conceal the fact of his wealth. He wants to be loved for himself, not for his stock and bonds. So it may be that Christ, heir to the glory of the heavenly Father, wishes now, in these present days, to be loved for Himself,—to be obeyed out of love and devotion. No one, seeing Jesus in power and glory, would wish to be anywhere else but on His side. So the power and the glory come at the end, not at the beginning.

Live as if—

Jesus said plainly that even the Son (meaning Himself) does not know "of that day and that hour," so we waste our ingenuity making up timetables for Him. He will come when the time is. One other thing Jesus made plain: His followers ought to live every day as if that Coming were to take place before tonight. This does not mean that we must shut our stores and factories and every one go home and pray. It means that wherever we are, if we are on the right trail it is our God-given duty to stay on it. If we are doing a good work it is our duty to finish it, as it He were coming to inspect it at six o'clock.

Live, in short, as in His sight; this is the old and always new command. But is He not always here? Yes—He can and He does live in the heart with the opened door. We have to remember this: God knows exactly as much about our lives, inside and out, as he could know if Jesus in person walked in the door with a fountain pen in His hand to make notes for a report for the Last Judgment.

Seventh-Day Adventist Church
Thirteenth Sabbath Offering, March 30, 1963.
The Appomattox Seventh Day Adventist Church learned this week that special mission funds given for work in New Guinea a year ago have resulted in the opening of a hospital in the Wabag Valley there. Called the Sopas Hospital, the medical unit accommodates 10 patient beds. It consists of four wards, the report said, administration block, nurses' home and the doctor's residence.

Dr. Roy O. Yeatts, a missionary who hales from Montana, is in charge of the hospital. Yeatts reports there is much leprosy, or Hansen's disease in the area, up to 150 people with various ailments receive care each day. urged to attend.

The mission is situated at an elevation of 7,000 feet overlooking the Wahag Valley and many of the small villages it serves. The area is heavily populated, the doctor says.

Mrs. Vaden Townsend, Sabbath School Supt. has announced that another special mission offering will be taken for the South Pacific Saturday. The funds will be used to help expand facilities at the Church's Fulton Missionary College on Pigi. The rapidly growing school, she says, especially needs ten new classrooms, a library, a chapel, and additional administrative offices.

The college on Pigi is one of 4,800 schools operated by the Adventists throughout the world.
